Ladies Aid To Hold Whist, July 2

Members of Catholic Ladies Aid Society, Branch 59, have planned a large whist party for next Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m. at St. Michael's hall, 32 Broad street. Chairlady is Mrs. Timothy Curtin.

The ladies extend their cordial invitation to whist players of this area. Attractive prizes, including a cash first prize, are to be awarded, according to the committee.

Dixie Named

A New Orleans bank was responsible for the popular term "Dixie," applied to the land below the Mason-Dixon line. Henry E. Elrod, Houston engineer and numismatician, said the Citizens bank of New Orleans was the originator, through its 10 piastre notes. The notes were issued in 1803, printed half in French and half in English. On the face of the note was the word "Ten" and its corresponding French word, "Dix." Southerners called the bills "Dixie." In those days, states issued their own money and much of it was almost worthless. The New Orleans bank was in prosperous condition, however, and the bills spread over the southland, which gradually became known as the land of the "Dixies," and finally, Dixieland.

Longest River

The Mississippi-Missouri, generally considered one river by geographers, is the longest in the world. From the fountain-head of the Missouri, in the Rockies on the southwest border of Montana, its total length is 4,221 miles. From the source of its other branch at Lake Itasca in northern Minnesota, the so-called Mississippi proper is 2,553 miles long. The second longest river is the Nile, 4,000 miles from its remotest headstream, the Kagera, which flows into Lake Victoria. The Amazon river in South America has the greatest basin—2,772,000 square miles.

Ancient Decorations

Shell, crystalline spar, bone and ivory were all employed by the ancients for architectural decoration. On these hard substances, the colorists could produce excellent designs. The thin film of color, however, was not durable—it soon wore away and light places showed through. Since those days, modern methods of decoration include certain mordants to set the colors and the steeping of small articles made from such dense substances in a dye bath for several hours.

THE BRIDE'S MOTHER could almost steal the show from her daughter, in an ensemble like the one worn here by Columbia network star Selena Royle of "Woman of Courage" series. Jay Thorpe designed the grey crepe redingote, over white foundation, embroidered with birds in flight. Her organdie hat is trimmed with lillies of the valley. A diamond spray of many colored stones in a dozen different cuts is worn instead of a corsage. (Jewel from Black, Starr and Gorham).

10 Commandments To Guard Nation's Bathroom Towels

Joliet, Ill.—Ten "bathroom commandments" for Mr. and Mrs. America were released here today by research scientists of the American Institute of Laundering.

Never Stretch a Towel

The scientists declared these rules are the "only effective defense against the total warfare waged by the careless family against its towels, leaving them tattered and torn."

Sand Cuts Threads

They added that the rules also would "remove from the professional laundry the unjust blame for resulting towel damage."

The ten commandments:

1. Never stretch a towel, it weakens the fabric, tears the threads, twists the shape.

Razors' Nicks Fatal

2. Mop moisture from the skin; don't rub.
3. Never put a wet towel in the hamper, it might mildew.
4. After swimming, be sure to wash away all sand, because such grit will cut the threads.

Not a Polishing Cloth

5. Never dry razor blades on towels; tiny nicks become big holes.
6. Never wipe shoes with towels; dirt and grit cut the fabric and stains corrode the cloth.
7. Don't playfully "snap" a towel; it breaks corner threads.
8. Don't use a towel to mop up astringents or medicine; they may weaken it considerably.

Use Whip, Not Towel

9. Keep porcelain cleaners away from towels and other cloth.
10. A towel is meant to dry the body, not the floor, use it as a floor mop and you court disaster.

The oldest licensed car in the state of Connecticut is a 1906 model.

Guard President

At President Roosevelt's party for Washington newspaper reporters, guests who had wandered to the south lawn had a queer sensation when they tried to get back into the Mansion and found the doors locked. Peering through the windows they saw that the brightly lighted Red room, the Blue room and the Green room had been suddenly emptied. Before long, a secret service aide came to explain. The rooms had been cleared to allow President Roosevelt to pass through to his private elevator. Just part of closer guarding of the President since the war has become worse.

President Arrested

Ulysses S. Grant was the only President ever arrested during his term of office. He loved fast horses, always had several in the White House stables, and had taken the highest mark for horsemanship in his class at West Point. His record in the high jumps has never been equaled. One day he was driving a spirited team in Washington, exceeded the speed limit, and was arrested by a colored policeman. The President put up a deposit of $20, but never appeared at the police court, and commended the colored policeman for doing his duty.

My Week

by Eleanor Roosevelt

A CHRISTENING

Our drive to Hyde Park one day was very pleasant and we stopped in Saratoga, N. Y., long enough to assist at the christening of a very sweet baby girl. She never cried at all when the water was poured over her head, which I am sure means that some day she is going to give her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Al William Kresse, a very hectic time. You see, I was brought up on the old superstition that babies must cry the "devil" out of them at their christening, and if they don't it will surely come out later on!

We spent the night with a friend and arrived home to face the usual mountains of mail which greet one after two days without any contact with the postman.

SAD LETTER

I found a rather sad letter from an old friend of the President's, who has always been very fond of the sea. Like many other people, this friend adopted an orphan during the last World war. But I think he must have taken it more seriously than the rest of us, for he has kept in touch with him and really helped him and known him well.

The other day, the Daily Mail in London carried the story of this boy, now grown to manhood and following the sea, meeting his death, as have so many other gallant English officers, on his ship, the HMS Patria. He was a first lieutenant and, when someone had to go below to free a hundred or more men who were trapped, instead of ordering a junior officer to do the job, he went himself and was never seen again, but nearly all the men on board were saved.

The story in itself will be one more tradition told on British ships on the seven seas to educate the young. It is the quotation in a letter from his wife to my husband's old friend which I want to give you. She writes:

"I am convinced that when he met this last trial, he maintained that quiet confidence, that unbreakable courage, and that smile of his that indicated peace of mind and soul. Danger at sea, he had always met without flinching, and this is as we must remember him. For my part, I am proud to have been his wife, even if for only eight years, and if his sons (there are two, five and two years old) grow up as straight and as fine and clean as daddy, I shall be satisfied."

This is a courageous attitude to take, but it must be hard to attain such fortitude of soul. If that is the spirit, however, in which the British face all defeats and still keep such high courage then we may be sure that in the end, right must triumph over might. If our own courage and determination can be at the same level, perhaps, before long, might will be on the side of right.

As I write we are having our second day of steady rain. It is the kind of June weather when a fire on the hearth is pleasant. Yesterday I discovered that last year's robins, or their progeny, have returned, not to the same bathroom window, but to the one next to it. Two blue eggs lie in the nest, from which the mother flies away when ever she hears a noise. I really wonder whether they are wet and miserable when the rain beats upon the window and all the protection they have is the ivy vine which grows thick around them.

CHIEF JUSTICE HUGHES

The news that Chief Justice Hughes is retiring on July 1 comes as a shock. He always seemed to be such a vigorous person that I do not associate him with any particular age. It must be a great satisfaction, however, to reach the point where you feel you can lay aside your work and do only the things you want to do the rest of your life.

To be able to look back, as Justice Hughes can, on a successful personal career, a good name achieved professionally, a happy home in which children have grown to maturity and started out on their own lives with a satisfactory background, a public life which has brought posts of honor as recognition of his high ability and integrity, all this must give the Chief Justice happiness. His countrymen will rejoice with him and do him honor, both in the present and the future.

I cannot close these few words about him without saying how much I have always admired Mrs. Hughes. It seems to me, she has contributed greatly to the success of his career and that some honor and affection from her countrymen are due her as well.

VALUABLE LIFE

Several days ago I noticed the report in the papers of the death of a woman I have known for a long while. Miss Julia K. Jaffray was associated with the National Committee on Prisons and Prison Labor for 33 years. She came to the United States from Galt, Canada, as stenographer to Miss Helen Varick Boswell, who was secretary of that committee. Miss Jaffray, herself, served as secretary for 25 years. This Canadian woman became a leader and wielded great influence here.

SERVE IT HOT THE FIRST DAY, COLD THE NEXT

—thereby making one day's cooking cover two days' meals

Dorothy Greig

WHEN we were just learning to cook and to plan meals, mother would often remark, "Remember, there's no law against saving yourself work. Do things the easy way when you can."

The advice is especially fitting for the hot spells of summer when none of us bubbles with enthusiasm for work anyway. An effective way to cut down on work is to stretch one day's cooking over meals for two days.

Baked Ham Loaf with Foamy Mustard Sauce is appetizing hot or cold.

For instance, in the following two-day plan notice that the ham loaf is the type of meat dish that is equally appetising hot or cold.

On our first day's meal, the loaf is served hot, with a sharp provocative sauce. But first, here's the plan for the whole meal:

Tomato Juice
Baked Ham Loaf with Foamy Mustard Sauce
Parsley Potatoes
Tossed Green Salad
Chocolate Cake
Iced Tea

Baked Ham Loaf

1½ pounds raw ground ham
½ pound fresh pork
1¼ cups cornflake crumbs
2 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¾ cup condensed consommé
1 egg, beaten

Mix the ground meats, and cornflake crumbs very thoroughly. Combine brown sugar, ground cloves and consommé and add to the meats, mixing well. Add the beaten egg at the last, then pack into a loaf pan and bake in a slow (300° F.) oven for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serves 8-10. Serve Foamy Mustard Sauce with it.

Foamy Mustard Sauce

½ cup brown sugar (firmly packed)
1½ tablespoons dry mustard
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup vinegar
½ cup condensed consommé
2 eggs, separated

Mix the brown sugar, dry mustard, flour and salt together. Heat the vinegar and consommé in the upper part of double boiler, when hot pour over the sugar mixture. Then pour all into double boiler and cook until slightly thickened. Stir in the beaten egg yolks very gradually and continue cooking about 3 minutes. Beat the egg whites until stiff, add the hot mixture gradually and stir or beat well.

Makes approximately 1¾ cups of sauce. Serve with Baked Ham Loaf.

For the second day we'll slice the ham loaf and offer it cold.

But we do need some hot food to give balance and contrast. Besides hot food aids digestion, especially when it comes at the beginning of the meal.

So for the hot dish on the second day's dinner serve hot soup. It is light, stimulating to appetite—and nothing at all to prepare. Just open a can of condensed soup, add an equal quantity of water and heat.

Chicken Gumbo Soup
Platter Cold Sliced Ham Loaf
Potato Chips
Sliced Cucumbers with Creamy Mustard Sauce
Orange Sherbet with Cookies
Coffee

Do you have any of that delicious Foamy Mustard Sauce left from the first day? Fine—then fold it into the dressing for the cucumber relish. Wonderful!

Sliced Cucumbers with Creamy Mustard Dressing

6 tablespoons whipping cream
¾ cup "foamy mustard sauce"
2 cucumbers, sliced

Beat the cream until stiff. Fold the "Foamy Mustard Sauce" into the whipped cream and serve over the sliced cucumbers.

For Icebox Raiders

By Frances Lee Barton

HAVE you an icebox raider in your home? Or do you like to lead your guests to the family icebox after a rubber of Bridge and do a little personal raiding?

Anyway, here's a recipe for a coconut mousse this is mighty good plunder for any raider — male or female. The only trouble is that when it has been once tasted, the raids are too frequent — and it's hard to protect the dessert for that company dinner.

Coconut Mousse

1 egg white; 1 cup heavy cream; ⅓ cup sugar; dash of salt; few drops almond extract; ¼ teaspoon vanilla; 1 cup shredded coconut, toasted and cooled.

Place egg white and cream in small bowl and beat with rotary egg beater until stiff. Add sugar gradually, beating well. Add salt, flavoring, and coconut. Place in freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and let stand 3 to 4 hours, or until firm. Or turn into mold filling it to overflowing; cover with waxed paper, press cover tightly down over paper, and pack in equal parts of ice and salt. Let stand 3 to 4 hours, or until firm. Makes 1½ pints mousse.

"Berry" Aristocratic!

By Frances Lee Barton

A raspberry red, grew with uplifted head
And an arrogant glance in its eye.
"I'm scheduled" it cried,
"To be featured inside
A Raspberry Glacé Lemon Pie."

Raspberry Glacé Lemon Pie

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin; 1¼ cups hot water; ¾ teaspoon salt; ½ cup sugar; ¼ cup lemon juice; ⅔ cup heavy cream; 1 baked 9-inch pie shell; 2¼ cups red raspberries.

¼ cup red raspberries; 1½ tablespoons sugar; 1 tablespoon water.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water; add salt and ½ cup sugar. Reserve ⅓ cup gelatin mixture for glacé. Add lemon juice to remaining gelatin. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in cream, whipped only until thick and shiny but not stiff. Turn into cold pie shell. Chill until firm. Cover with 2¼ cups raspberries. Pour glacé over raspberries. Chill until firm.

To make glacé, combine ¼ cup raspberries, 1½ tablespoons sugar, and 1 tablespoon water in small saucepan. Cook gently until raspberries are very soft. Drain, reserving juice; measure 3 tablespoons. Add to reserved ⅓ cup gelatin. Chill until cold and syrupy.

China Elephant

Dr. William W. Christley, Corydon, Ind., dentist, found a tiny china elephant in the debris of the 1937 Ohio river flood. He kept it. Since then, he has collected more than 700 toy elephants, big and little, in every kind of material from ivory to sponge. He keeps them in his office.

No Log Cabins

Although most American illustrations picture them in log cabins, the late Harold R. Shurtleff, in the Log Cabin Myth, published by Harvard University Press, states that there were no log cabins in early New England or Virginia. They built frame houses.

Last Word in Television

The new television antenna just completed atop the Chrysler building in New York is the only one of its kind in the world. Built to withstand a 150-mile gale, it consists of four hollow tapered aluminum bars, electrically heated to prevent formation of ice in the winter.

Too Shy

Fred Kral, 73 years old, is "too shy and embarrassed," according to his 64-year-old bride of Cleveland. So, Mrs. Kral freely admits, she not only did the proposing, but also reversed the usual process by bestowing a kiss on the blushing bridegroom at the end of the ceremony.

Nurses

The National Organization of Public Health Nurses is represented by 39,000 trained women who spread the gospel of good health in isolated homes of poor families throughout the United States.

Chemicals in Textiles

Textile fibers, including cotton, linen, rayons, silk and wool, are built up mainly from carbon, hydrogen and oxygen, although silk has in addition some nitrogen, and wool has nitrogen and sulphur.

Women Emancipated

In dry Uzbekistan, where much of the Soviet Union's increasing cotton supply is produced by the aid of irrigation, some three-quarters of the population is made up of Uzbeks, with minority groups of Tatars, Tajiks, Cossacks and Russians. Today—in a country where wives were once bought for so much rice—women are now reported to account for one-third of the industrial workers, many of them skilled as machinists and tractor operators. Others have become teachers, actresses and physicians.

Boy Weather Prognosticater

Interested in weather, a 14-year-old boy, Roger Keener, a Boy Scout, of Canaan, Conn., has set up his own weather bureau in his home and his predictions have been quite accurate, neighbors say. He has all the necessary instruments for recording wind, humidity, barometer pressure and precipitation. Roger became interested in weather through his scouting work and hopes to go on with his study, expecting to make it his profession later on in life.

No Blackout

Failure to display tail lights on their baby carriages during the blackout cost four women four shillings (about 80 cents) each. They were fined in magistrate's court at Walsall, Staffordshire. The arrests were made after one of the carriages was hit by an automobile.

Broken Nails

A liquid has been invented for mending broken finger nails.

First Dog Shot

Bobby, an Alsatian dog attached to a crack French Zouave regiment as a messenger, was the first dog to be shot by the Germans on the Western front, according to a report received in Paris. His body was recovered and was buried with the following epitaph: "Here lies Bobby, a messenger dog, who fell on the field of honor while rendering service."
